

Communication Recovery Groups for Adults

St. Jude Medical Center offers one of the nation's most comprehensive and innovative communication recovery programs. Through weekly, small-group therapy, we help patients and community members regain their ability to communicate and recover their quality of life. Led by St. Jude speech language pathologists, these groups offer today's best therapeutic approaches, conversational practice, and the support and friendship of others who understand exactly what you are facing.

Participation in these affordable, highly interactive therapy groups begins with an assessment by one of our certified speech language pathologists to determine your individual needs and goals. To schedule an assessment or learn more about the program, please contact Jennifer Even, MS, CCC-SLP, at (714) 578-8706 ext. 2339 or jennifer.even@stjoe.org
